Want Book Defaming Jews Barred

NEW YORK—The American representation of the Central Jewish Workers' Union of Poland this week appealed to the Polish government-in-exile in London to bar the distribution among Polish soldiers of an anti-Semitic book, "Kultura Polski," published by Roy Publishers, New York, and distributed as a gift to men in the Polish armed forces throughout the world.

Among the anti-Semitic statements which the book contains, it describes Polish-Jewish relations as follows: "The Poles envy the Jews their wealth, particularly since the Poles are convinced that the Jews acquired their fortunes by wicked means. The more superstitious the Poles became, the richer the Jews got. The Jews lived in Polish towns like worms in beautiful furniture, like moths in precious furs. The Polish landlords liked eating spicy foods, and the Jews sold them these foods that is why the Jews got everything from the landlords for a sack of pepper. The Jews ment everything to the landlord. The landlords rented mills, inns, hotels and hamlets to the Jews. The Jew was his best secretary and his trusty servant."

A provision in the resolution allows "conscientious objectors to not join the Z. O. A."

CONFERENCE HITS COMMITTEE'S WITHDRAWAL. HOLDS DOOR OPEN

By JESSE LURIE

(Jewish Post Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK (Wednesday)—The American Jewish Conference, through its Interim Committee, tonight issued a 15-page statement for tomorrow morning's papers deploring the withdrawal of the American Jewish Committee but emphasizing that the door is open for its return. The statement conceded the right of any organization to withdraw, but said that exercise of that right is indefensible when it torpedoed American Jewish unity, which already has been too long deferred.

Pointing out that the conditions set by the American Jewish Committee when it joined the Conference had been met, the statement challenges the contentions of the Committee that its withdrawal was because of the Palestine Resolution adopted at the Conference. Seven of the eleven resolutions were concerned with postwar rehabilitation, three with immediate rescue of the Jews of Europe and only one with Palestine, the statement declared. The withdrawal appears to have been determined by the committee's desire to maintain an independent course of action without full responsibility to the Jewish community.

Thus, the statement that these acts occurred in the past few days seem unfounded. We have no desire to minimize the reprehensible nature of these acts. On the contrary, we condemn them. We have engaged in considerable activity to counteract them. This statement is issued merely to correct the reports which have appeared in the press."

Woman's Competition: "After she has been married a few months a woman learns that her chief competition is not other and more comely members of her sex who may chance to smile coquettishly at her husband. . . . Instead, the objects of her jealousy are a pipe, a book, an easy chair, the locker-room gang, a brief case full of home work or a cabin by some lake in the country. . . . She learns that time can be spent but once; that his income is limited; that the chunk given to the Saturday night poker game comes out of her budget and never will be spent with her or on her." Another woman adds: "A man must budget his time; whether he realizes it or not. Time that in part, at least, belongs as much to her as to him. When the choice goes against her she loses irrevocably, and permanently."

Girl orchestras date back to 1871 when the Vienna ladies' orchestra in New York caused a sensation. The first American all-girl orchestra was the Fadettes in Boston, Mass., in 1889. Women found it harder to break into music than any other artistic field. In 1856, Elizabeth Stirling, an English organist and composer, submitted to Oxford her beautiful CXXX psalms in order to get her degree. Her work was praised but the degree denied her "for want of power to confer same on a woman." Mozart was one of the few who claimed women could become good musicians. He said they had more talent for string instruments than men due to their delicacy of touch and capacity for emotion. Evelyn of "magic violin" is manager of the All Girl Orchestra.

The members were selected on the following basis: (1) their musicianship, (2) their singing ability, (3) their appearance, (4) (and this is as important as the other three put together) their character background, and ability to get along with other people. In the nine years of this organization there hasn't been a single argument among the girls.

ADL Says Vandalism 6 Months Old

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK — The office of the Anti-Defamation League this week issued a statement to the Jewish Telegraphic Agency declaring that the reports in Chicago cemeteries are based on acts of vandalism which started about two years ago but which ceased six months back. The statement reads:

"The Chicago office of the Anti-Defamation League has investigated the stories published with respect to vandalism in Jewish cemeteries there, which allegedly occurred during the past few days. As a matter of fact, this vandal-

Dissolve JEC As Conference Takes Over

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
NEW YORK—The Joint Emergency Committee for European Jewish Affairs, composed of the leading Jewish organizations in the country, this week voted to dissolve itself.

The decision was reached by a vote of 5 to 4. Voting for the dissolution of the committee were the representatives of the American Jewish Congress, the B'nai B'rith, the Synagogue Council of America, the American Zionist Emergency Council and the Hadassah. Against the dissolution were the American Jewish Committee, the Jewish Labor Committee, the Union of Orthodox Rabbis and the Agudas Israel of America.

In the resolution proposing the dissolution of the committee, it was pointed out that such a body is no longer necessary since a committee on the rescue of Jews from occupied Europe has now been established by the American Jewish Conference. The representatives of the organizations who opposed the dissolution argued that while not all Jewish groups are represented in the American Jewish Conference they are all represented in the Joint Emergency Committee for European Affairs. This, they stated, offers a good opportunity for united Jewish action in behalf of the Jews in occupied Europe. The reply of the members advocating the dissolution of the committee was that the doors of the American Jewish Conference are still open to all other groups.

Survey Recommends Pool at Big Eagle Camp

Construction of a swimming pool at Big Eagle Camp, broadening of the camp program and formation of a separate agency to operate the camp were the three points stressed this week by Mrs. Edwin Eells, secretary of the National Camping association, following her recent survey in a recommendation submitted to a joint meeting of the Jewish Federation Camp Committee and the camp Board of Governors.

Mrs. Eells pointed out that a camp the size of Big Eagle Camp could be an important adjunct to the welfare activities of the community, and that with the addition of a swimming pool and other recommended changes, appointment of a qualified director and personnel, and the extension of activities to children of all income groups, its usefulness would be increased greatly.

Approval of the swimming pool was made by the committee, which through the Federation, already has a Swimming Pool Memorial Fund. The group also approved the recommendation to extend the camp activities to children of all income groups, and to assist those unable to pay.

Fate of Jews U. S. Concern, F.D.R. Says

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt, at his press conference this week, indicated that the U. S. Government is definitely interested in the fate of the Jews in occupied Europe. The problems of rescuing them and of sending them immediate relief are merely questions of ways and means, he said.

The President was asked whether anything had been decided at the tri-partite conference in Moscow about the Jews in Nazi Europe. He replied that he would not know until the return of Secretary of State Cordell Hull. He hoped Hull would be back soon.

The heart is in the right place, President Roosevelt remarked, but it is a question of ways and means. He added that the same is true of sending relief.

MEDIEVAL CEREMONY SEES BOMBED SYNAGOGUE REOPENED

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON — In an impressive ceremony reminiscent of medieval times, the temporary synagogue which has been erected on the site of the Great Synagogue of London, destroyed by Nazi bombs during the "blitz," was consecrated this week.

The Synagogue was formally opened by Sir Samuel Joseph, Jewish Lord Mayor of London, who was accompanied by his sheriffs, mace-bearers, chaplains attached to the Jewish units of the Royal Fusiliers and other dignitaries. Chief Rabbi Joseph Hertz delivered a sermon after which the scrolls of the Torah were carried to the Holy Ark and an eternal lamp which had stood in the ancient synagogue at Hamburg was kindled. Among the guests attending the ceremony were Jewish chaplains attached to the American and Canadian forces in Britain.

AMERICAN LEAGUE FOR A FREE PALESTINE

Regional Office, 139 N. Clark St., Suite 705, Chicago, Ill.

TRUE to the spirit and traditions of the American people, who have generously fostered and aided all movements of national freedom and independence, and who have, through specific resolutions of Congress, favored the restoration of Palestine to the Jewish people; conscious that the solution of the age-old problem of the Jewish people is an indispensable condition of permanent peace in the world and one of the objectives of democracy; moved, moreover, by the desire to help preserve the lives and restore the dignity of the ancient Jewish people of Europe and Palestine, the American League for a Free Palestine backs the freedom movement of the renaissance Hebrew nation and dedicates its efforts to the realization of the following objectives and aims.

IMMEDIATE OBJECTIVES

1. To save the remaining millions of the Jewish people of Europe.
2. To open for them the doors of Palestine.
3. To obtain recognition of the right of the disinherited, dispersed Jews of Europe and the proud Jewish people of Palestine to fight as comrades-in-arms with other nations in this war against our common foe, under their own insignia, in their own army, on every battlefield of the world to which the United Nations High Command will assign them.

POST-WAR AIMS

1. To recognize the Palestinian Jews and the uprooted Jews of the Old World as the renaissance Hebrew nation; to secure their right to statehood as a free and independent Government within the historic boundaries of Palestine, it being understood that the Holy Places of all faiths will be placed under the control of a legally constituted international authority and that the non-Jewish population of free Palestine will enjoy the fullest guarantees of citizenship and of individual civic, political and religious rights.
2. To establish the right of the Jews of the whole world to live in freedom and equality on a par with all other human beings everywhere.
3. And thus to put an end to the scandal of history and the problem that has troubled all the countries of Europe by readmitting a great and ancient people to the family of nations and by restoring Palestine as a nation of the renaissance Hebrew nation, and hereby pledges its full support to this the principles of the Four Freedoms and the Atlantic Charter.

IN ACCORDANCE with the above objectives and aims, the American League for a Free Palestine recognizes the Free Palestine Committee as representing the aspirations of the renaissance Hebrew nation, and hereby pledges its full support to this committee.

BASIC PRINCIPLES OF ORGANIZATION

1. The American League for a Free Palestine is non-sectarian. It is composed of Americans of Jewish descent as well as of all other national origins.
2. Membership in the League, with all the rights and privileges such membership implies, is open to every man or woman, over eighteen years of age, who subscribes to the above Declaration of Aims and Principles and pays the annual membership dues of one dollar.
3. The American League for a Free Palestine adopts the Proclamation on the Moral Rights of the Stateless and Palestinian Jews as the basis of its educational and political activities.

I subscribe to the Declaration of Aims and Principles of the American League for a Free Palestine and enclose herewith one dollar as my annual membership dues.

The editor's chair:

I spent a pleasant column in this chair back in August 20 speculating on the reasons behind Rabbi Hyman J. Schachtel's charge of pulpitis from the very fine West End Synagogue in New York to that of Beth Israel in Houston. I mentioned Rabbi Schachtel's advocacy of the American Council for Judaism, and several other related items. Then when at the American Jewish Conference, Rabbi Solomon Goldman commended that week's chair and told me that Rabbi Henry Barnston of Beth Israel Congregation would relinquish his pulpit only on condition that he be succeeded by a man who followed his own beliefs.

That episode, although interesting, seemed over, until I received the following letter last week:

To the editor:

I am sending you an item that should prove of considerable interest to you and your readers. I believe I have found "something new under the sun."

Herewith, is a copy of an application for membership in Temple Beth Israel, of Houston, Texas, of which I am a member. You will note that the application contains the following language; "understand that Beth Israel is an American Reform Congregation and I subscribe to the basic principles thereof, as set forth on the back of this application." The so-called "basic principles" speak for themselves. If an applicant is conscientious and refuses to subscribe to these principles, which incidentally were formulated by a handful of laymen, he has the choice of being denied membership or accepting secondary membership; that is, being a member without a vote. There are other features to this document that may appeal to your sense of humor or outrage your sense of justice.

The men who perpetrated this outrage, it is very evident, have not heard about the American Jewish Conference and the efforts it has made to bring about unity and solidarity in Israel. I am sure the local community would be interested in an expression from you.

Civic Protective Groups Can Work as One

IN a letter to President Roosevelt, the Coordinating Committee of Jewish Organizations dealing with employment discrimination in war industries, composed of seventy national and local Jewish organizations, the chief executive was asked to make clear the order banning discrimination in employment in war industries. Organizations included in the Coordinating Committee are among others the American Jewish Congress, the Anti-Defamation League, the Jewish Labor Committee and the American Jewish Committee, the four major groups interested in civic defense work for the American Jewish Community.

These four groups, for reasons which change with the opportunism of the moment and the security of the jobs of the people at their head, complain that they cannot work together effectively as one organization.

The Cincinnati Jewish Community didn't believe them and withheld a $25,000 subvention for more than six months. The National Council of Jewish Welfare Funds and Federations hasn't believed them for about four years now, and has tried every method within human ingenuity to bring them together, even at one time getting the word of the four organizations that they would enter preliminary negotiations leading towards a merger, but all unavailing.

The letter is dated Nov. 5; the Coordinating Committee has been functioning successfully for quite a while now. The four civic defense agencies can operate as one whenever they want to and will at the very moment when they feel that they can no longer ignore the will of American Jewry.

Everything, But . . .

THE war has affected everything Jewish but . . . In campaigns throughout the nation for Jewish welfare funds, Jews have responded with a generosity that indicates how much the war has made them conscious of their obligation to help the needy.

In drives to wipe out mortgages and build up funds for future synagogue buildings, the impact of the war has shown itself undeniably.

In our contributions in the way of USO and the Army and Navy Committee of the Jewish Welfare Board work, the war has made us give of ourselves to the utmost. We knit, we sew, we gather clothing.

In bond drives, the Jewish groups have excelled themselves. More often than not Jews have taken the lead to show the populace what it is to buy beyond expectation.

And our firm faith in democracy as the best form of government evolved by man has been strengthened even more than ever, if that were possible, by the determination of the free peoples to defeat aggression and injustice.

Yes, in every phase of Jewish life the war has worked its cause and effect relationship. We are stirred so we react generously with our time and our money. We are moved so we visit the blood bank not once but five and six times and more.

The war has affected everything Jewish but . . . JUDAISM.

We may practice its precepts of mercy and justice and charity, but we neglect the fountainhead of these precepts.

Sophisticated, we don't go to synagogue to draw from its abundant strength in faith and courage. Sophisticated, we have decided that we are self-sufficient unto ourselves, and we turn not to the synagogue for help, because we are afraid of an admission of weakness.

In our sophistication and pride we have ignored the synagogue and now we are determined to prove that our original blase decision was right. That "from whence cometh our help" is a phrase for little children.

A lost generation, we are determined to prove that even a world upheaval with our own children and husbands being drawn by the holocaust unto death itself cannot affect us.

The war has affected everything Jewish but Judaism.

Respect for Anglo-Jewish Press and "Canned" Editorials

THE most damnable use yet made of the "canned" editorial in the Anglo-Jewish press was the attack on the American Jewish Committee last week in such papers as The Jewish Advocate of Boston, The Jewish Exponent of Philadelphia and other papers which dishonestly use editorials written in a New York syndicate office under their own name.

The Post is not defending the American Jewish Committee. It printed its opinion of the Committee's recent action last week. A "canned" editorial praising virtue and deploring evil is bad enough, a "canned" editorial lauding the upbuilding of Palestine, could possibly be condoned. A "canned" editorial on a controversial point is immoral and unfair.

There has never been any excuse for "canned editorials," and no paper has ever tried to defend them. If a paper is so enamored with the logic and writing ability of a commentator in the office of the Independent Jewish Press Service in New York, then it can very properly print these comments under the heading, "Editorial Comments by the Independent Jewish Press Service," or some other such appropriate title. But to print these strictures under their own masthead and their own name as editor is the lowest type of depravity, and the Anglo-Jewish press as a whole has suffered because of this episode in its history.

The Independent Jewish Press Service has no excuse either for permitting the papers to use their material without proper credit. In the announcement made last week of the succession of J. L. Teller to the editorship of the Press Service, there is some hope that the evil may be outlawed, and papers which have no self respect of their own, forced to write their own comment on affairs or be shut up as they should be.

"The American Jewish Committee has attempted an act of major sabotage," writes the syndicate editorialist in New York. "The American Jewish Committee has attempted an act of major sabotage," writes Norman J. Ginsburg, whose name appears in the masthead of The Jewish Exponent of Philadelphia. "The American Jewish Committee has attempted an act of major sabotage," writes Alexander J. Brin, editor of The Jewish Advocate, of Boston.

Is there any wonder that the American Jewish public does not respect the English-Jewish Press, when it doesn't respect itself.

Current Comment

A mother prays God to take care of her soldier son, by George Matthew Adams in the West Side Institutional Review—God, Father of Freedom look after that boy of mine, wherever he may be. Walk in upon him. Talk with him during the silent watches of the night, and spur him to bravery when he faces the cruel foe. Transfer my prayer to his heart.

Keep my boy inspired by the neverdying faith in his God. Throughout all the long days of hopeful Victory, wherever his duty take him, keep his spirit high and his purpose unwavering. Make him a loyal friend. Nourish him with the love that I gave to him at birth, and satisfy the hunger of his soul with the knowledge of my daily prayer.

He is my choicest treasure. Take care of him, God. Keep him in health and sustain him under every possible circumstance. I once warmed him under my heart. You warm him anew in his shelter under the stars. Touch him with my smile of cheer and comfort, and my full confidence in his every brave pursuit.

Fail him not—and he may not fail You, his country, nor the mother who bore him.

TOWN CRIER

By G. M. C.

Probably the greatest satisfaction to a publisher whose paper is small enough for him to know everything that goes on, is when a new subscription comes in. The publisher can land a large advertising contract, which certainly is not to be belittled, and he can be slapped on the back and told that he's doing a fine job, which is certainly appreciated. But all of these cannot stand up against the simple testimony of the man who puts out his $3 for a year's subscription.

This introductory explanation is preface to the fact that last Thursday in the mail, there were eight new subscriptions. All but one came through the good offices of people who like the paper well enough that they take off a little time to get their friends to subscribe. Five, Aaron Warshaw, Asher Siegel, Jack Levy, Harry Tarler and Phillip Kaufman, came from Simon Miller of East Chicago; two Barney Charnekar and Louis Schoenberg came from Henry Smulevitz of East Chicago; the eighth came from Irv Taitel of Knox.

I don't want to be too subtle in this piece. How many of you reading this will get on the phone right now and call your best friend or your sister or your brother and get us a new subscription? You wouldn't want to surprise me, would you?

I regret to see Rabbi Randall Falk, whom I knew well and admired, leave B'nai Israel Temple in Kokomo, where he has been a student rabbi for the past several years. He was an unaffected as a child and yet seemed to have a spiritual quality about him that others strive to attain unsuccessfully. Mrs. Jack Copenhagen, our correspondent writing to me about Rabbi Falk, said: "Rabbi Falk has resigned and will take a pulpit in Battle Creek, Mich. The congregation regrets his resignation as he was such an inspiration to all of us, especially our children." He was presented with a gold pen and pencil set by the congregation.

The final figures are not available, but Jewish contributions to the United War Fund totaled more than 10 per cent over the combined gifts to the Jewish Welfare Fund and the War Fund last year. This is the word from Bill Schloss, and he ought to know.

To Review Life of Carver

"George Washington Carver" by Rackham Holt will be reviewed by Rabbi Maurice Goldblatt at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday at the Temple, 10th and Delaware streets, as the third review in Rabbi Goldblatt's series, sponsored by the Temple Sisterhood. Mrs. Harold Platt will present Rabbi Goldblatt, following a group of organ selections by Evelyn Borofsky-Roskin, beginning at 10:15 a. m.

PLAN INDOOR PICNIC

The Workmen's Circle will give an indoor picnic Sunday, Nov. 21, at 1218 South Meridian street. This will be an all-day affair. There will be plenty of good things to eat, and the public is invited, according to the announcement.

"The Adventures of Tartu" at Loew's

Historic buildings and some of London's most-blitzed areas provide authentic settings for "The Adventures of Tartu," filmed in England with Robert Donat of "Mr. Chips." It is showing at Loew's Theater. Metro Goldwyn Mayer rented two studios in England in one of which a reproduction of the great Skoda munitions factory in Czechoslovakia was built, and a cast of notable British surround the star.

"The Adventures of Tartu" sees Donat playing the role of an English secret service agent who succeeds in getting into Pilsen and bombing a plant making a new and deadly form of poison gas. He figures in a romance with a beautiful Czech girl.

The heroine is Valerie Hobson, beautiful English actress who has been seen in this country in "U-Boat 29" and "Blackout" filmed in England. Glynis Johns, eighteen years old beauty from the English stage, Walter Rilla, noted European character actor, and Phyllis Morris are among the principals in the cast.

The companion feature is "Dr. Gillespie's Criminal Case" with Lionel Barrymore, Donna Reed and Van Johnson.

At first I thought this was just another statement which was not binding, but merely a directive of policy. But in the application, there is this sentence: "I subscribe

COOK, GOLDSTEIN TEAM LEADS

David Cook and Allen Goldstein, co-chairmen of District 8, headed the first division of the individual gifts section of the United War Fund to go over the top in this year's campaign. They reported last Friday that they had reached 115 per cent of their quota of $12,582. Final results have not yet been tabulated.

Others on the teams that have helped to put the division into first place were Jerry Wachter, Julius Falender and Philip Grenwald.

to, the basic principles thereof as set forth on the back of this application, which principles I have read and signed."

What I can't understand is why it is necessary for Beth Israel to go to such lengths. I am sure that it is an internal matter for Beth Israel Congregation to thrash out, how it wants to run its own congregation, but it would seem that there is such a thing as dignity in congregation conduct. I prefer the following statement which I came across in the Bulletin of Baltimore's Har Sinai congregation, of which Abraham Shusterman is rabbi: "The glory of the American synagogue is its voluntary nature. None is forced to belong. None is forced to render service. In a democracy the citizen is regarded as a free agent. He is equally at liberty to withhold membership and service as he is to belong and to serve. We regard it as our glory that all who are of Har Sinai and who serve it are motivated by their soul's desire."

lies will be held Sunday, Nov. 14, and a reception in honor of the couple to be held at the home of the bride's parents from 7 to 10 p. m. will follow the dinner.

No invitations have been issued for the reception.

Mrs. George Cohen, 5903 Guilford, has returned from a month's stay in Denver, Colo., where she visited her son, Sgt. Samuel H. Cohen, who is stationed at Lowry Field. She was accompanied home by her cousin, Mrs. H. Wascovitz of Denver, who will remain here for several weeks.

Arrive Here For Wedding

Sgt. and Mrs. Arvin K. Rothschild and son Henry Michael have arrived from Jacksonville, Fla., and are the guests of Mrs. Henry M. Rothschild, 3738 Ruckle. They will attend the wedding of Sgt. Rothschild's brother, Pfc. Leonard Rothschild and Miss Lillian Singer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Singer, 3146 North Meridian. The wedding will take place Sunday, Nov. 17, at the Columbia Club.

Sgt. Sanford Rothschild of the Army Air Forces, Sheppard Field, Texas, is also in Indianapolis to visit his mother, Mrs. Henry Rothschild, and to attend the wedding of his brother.

The Hadassah Debs will hold their regular monthly meeting at 3 p. m. Sunday at Kirshbaum Center.

At a meeting of the Beta Nu Sorority, held at the home of Mrs. Julius Bryan, plans were completed for a progressive dinner to be held at 7 p. m. Sunday, Nov. 14. The affair will begin at the home of Mrs. Manuel Farber. Seven new members will be initiated Tuesday, Nov. 16, at the home of Mrs. Abe Bortz.

At the golden wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Markun Sunday evening at the Claypool Hotel, honor guests included Gov. Henry F. Schricker, Rabbi Morris M. Feuerlicht and Rabbi and Mrs. Maurice Goldblatt.

When George Gershwin died in 1937, he left more of the better popular music than any other composer in his time. His "Rhapsody in Blue," the concerto in F, "Porgy and Bess," and even "The Man I Love," had been the sole key to a new kind of music—jazz with dignity, we are made familiar with his "Embraceable You," "Fascinating Rhythm," "I Got Plenty o' Nuttin'," "I Got Rhythm," "It Ain't Necessarily So," "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off," "Summertime," "Of Thee I Sing," "Oh, Lady, Be Good," "Somebody Loves Me," "Strike Up Band," "They Can't Take That Away From Me" and "Wintergreen for President."

Births

Sgt. and Mrs. Sam Smulyan of 5810 Washington boulevard are the parents of a daughter born Friday, Nov. 5, at Coleman Hospital. Sergeant Smulyan is home on furlough to be with his wife, the former Natalie Stoklin.

Committee Names Slawson to High Post

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
NEW YORK—Dr. John Slawson, prominent social worker, has been appointed executive vice president of the American Jewish Committee to succeed Morris D. Waldman, who, after fifteen years of service, is being elevated to the position of vice-chairman of the General Committee. It was announced this week by Joseph M. Proskauer, president. Dr. Slawson was executive director of the Jewish Board of Guardians in New York. Prior to that he was execu-

There is no formula by which a poet or writer is made. Robert Burns's origin was of the humblest. He saw his first gray glimmer of Scotch mist under the sagging roof of a cottage built of clay—so badly built, in fact, that part of it collapsed when the infant poet was only a week old, and he had to be hurried through the midnight storm to a place of shelter. Their living was of the roughest, plainest kind. In these days it would be difficult for most of us to imagine the hardships of a peasant family's life at that period. There were days of hard labor for old and young, with scant relaxation; there was little to wear and less to eat. Sometimes the long, dark winter evenings were cheered only by the doubtful light of a peat fire. But the boys and girls of the Burns family had two great blessings, at least—good parents and an earnest teacher.

THE JEW IN THIS WAR

Two Letters of Supreme Concern to Every Jew

To the Editor:

I am enclosing the following interpretation of "The Jew and the Draft" for your attention. Judging from the response in Laurelton, this is a theme of burning interest to our people. I also found that our membership was extremely satisfied with the point of view expressed in this article. It occurs to me, therefore, that the American Jewish Congress could use this article satisfactorily.

A. HERBERT FEDDER.

Rabbi, Laurelton Jewish Center,
Laurelton, N. Y.

The Jew and the Draft

"What goes faster than a P 40?" A Jew passing a draft board. This was said by a Gentile draft eligible in a defense plant to a co-worker. A Jewish worker irked by this and knowing that I had stated that Jews had been drafted in larger numbers than their proportion in the population, came to me for proof of this statement.

When I referred him to the pamphlet, "In the Nations' Service," published by the Jewish Welfare Board, and "Jews in the Wars of the United States," published by the Jewish War Veterans, he demurred, saying these anti-Semites will disbelieve a Jewish publication. This brings to mind the saying in the ethics of the Fathers: "Be diligent in the study of the Torah, know how to answer the skeptic."

The statement, "Jews made up 3 per cent of the populations of the U. S. A., and gave from 4 to 5 per cent to the armed forces, can easily be substantiated. But the bare statement by itself does not dispel the notion that Jews try to evade the draft.

To answer the skeptic, what is needed is an analysis of the draft figures in relation to the Jewish population. The fact is, wherever a test is made such as the one in Trenton in 1942, it is found that Jews are drafted on a larger scale than non-Jews. There the military census of the community showed that 22.7 per cent of Jewish men between the ages of 20 and 45 were in the service, as compared with 20.4 per cent for non-Jews in the community.

This study was analyzed by the Trenton American Legion, the Chamber of Commerce, and found to be accurate. Similar studies are being made by the Jewish Welfare Board in two hundred cities, and because of certain inherent factors, which I shall explain, will most probably tell a similar story.

Jews are drafted in larger proportions for two chief reasons. One because they are an urban people, and the draft is more efficient in large cities. Two, because they have been found to have more males than females in their population as compared to other groups. Whether the latter is because they are an immigrant people, and the males came to America first, or for other reasons, the fact is this is their population story in the U. S. A.

Since this is so, why do many, even Jews, feel that our people evade the draft. The answer is to be found in the very reason for their preponderance in the draft, that is concentration of Jews in large cities. Also, because until recently only one-fifth of those eligible for the draft were accepted. Sickness, dependency, defense exempted the bulk of our draftees.

Now, when half of American Jewry lives in New York City, and 90 per cent in the ten largest cities of the U. S. A., and when four-fifths of the draft population walk about exempt, one is bound to see many Jewish draft eligibles on the streets.

Isn't it natural for Gentiles visiting New York, and even Jews, seeing so many Jewish draft eligibles about, to feel that this canard about the Jews and the draft seems true?

Also, American Jewry originates predominantly from the Russian Czarist world. There is still prevalent in Jewish family talk the hate of the Russian conscription system. There, in 1860, 1870 and 1880, to be drafted was to be selected either

(Editorial from The Jewish Examiner)

Where Is the Jew in This War?

We are gratified at the succinct way in which Walter White, the eminent leader and spokesman for the colored people, has stated the case as it applies to Jews. Speaking at the Citizens' Emergency Conference for Interracial Unity, on the subject of dissemination of hate, Mr. White observed the answer to the fomentors of discord who ask, "Where is the Jew in this war?" can be found in the daily casualty lists.

"Here in New York City a deliberate campaign is being conducted, not only against the Negroes, but against another minority group—the Jews. . . . Now you and I know that all we need is to look at the casualty lists and see the number of Bernsteins and Cohens and Greenbaums which seem all too prominent on these casualty lists from all sections of the battlefield." Mr. White has in a few words emphatically epitomized the situation.

We can offer several supplementary suggestions which we believe to be of vital importance. The first is that the casualty lists Mr. White justifiably takes as his evidence prove to be even more heavily seasoned with Jews if it were realized that many names now Anglicized are those of Jews. The files of the National Jewish Welfare Board's Bureau of War Records are replete with names of Jewish lads like Justin Barry Arnold, S. M. Berkeley, Emmet F. Blake-more, M. W. Coleman, W. J. Dover, J. J. Firestone, S. N. Gholson, Alvin Jackson, J. W. Jameson, I. W. Jeffery, P. M. Johnson, Allen K. Lamb, Raymond Leblang, S. B. Livingston, Harry Robinson, Roland Small, C. J. Young, and a tragic host of others whose names are no clue to their origin, but whose sacrifices are part of the great contribution the American Jewish community is making to the war.

The second suggestion we should like to make in the sphere of Jewish participation in the battle against the Axis is a happier one: to examine not only the casualty lists, but the rosters of decorated men and of officers' promotions. Here is dynamic proof that our sons are performing for forced conversion or horrible persecution.

You couldn't blame Jews for developing a hate for that kind of draft.

However, in all countries where Jews were emancipated, they not only accepted the draft but they swelled the armies of the world by a scale of volunteering beyond their proportion in the population.

Of the 250,000 Jews in the American Army in World War I, 40,000 were volunteers, and of these latter, 14,000 enlisted in the Marines. A simple study of the honor rolls in synagogues and centers, and in communities and cities will reveal a large proportion of Jewish volunteers all over the country.

Yes, dear friends, the maxim of Rabbi Elazar Perek is more than true today. Read, analyze, memorize and repeat the great story of the Jewish contribution to the American Army. Answer not only the prejudiced skeptic, but answer yourself.—A. H. F.

MAX REINHARDT

Max Reinhardt was a very proud Jew. . . . He loved orthodox synagogues, and frequently visited them in the company of Meyer Weisgal, his best friend in America. . . . Reform Jewry left him cold. . . . Rabbis without beards, he said, looked too much like miscast actors. . . . Reinhardt's dream was to establish and international theater in Palestine. . . . He was built to live a hundred years. . . . He died of a broken heart. . . . The commercial producers of Hollywood and Broadway never realized that Max Reinhardt was not just a director, but the creator of the modern theater. . . . Instead of sitting at his feet they trampled all over him. . . . Always the great uncomplaining aristocrat, he preferred to remain idle rather than accept offers that were beneath his standards. . . . The closeness of his relationship with his sons, Gottfried and Wolfgang, and with his Ayrn wife, Helene Thimig, who followed him into exile, was beautiful. . . . When he knew that he was dying he called them in one by one and with a philosophical smile told them not to mourn. . . . Reinhardt was a great artist, but a still greater man.

PERSONAL DETAILS

Here are some things the newspapers will never tell you about the late Max Reinhardt. . . . He never traveled without his own bed-linen, even on overnight trips. . . . He never went to bed before 5 a. m. . . . He brushed his teeth six times a day, for twenty minutes at a time. . . . His imported cigars cost a dollar and a half apiece. . . . He always wrote his own speeches, and never permitted any ghostwriting to be done for him. . . . He never saved money, even in his most prosperous days. . . . The only time in his life that he got up before noon was when Joe Brainin, his press representative, arranged for a Sunday forenoon broadcast in 1939.

READER'S GUIDE

James Waterman Wise's "Very Truly Ours" deserves to be a best-seller. . . . It most probably will become one. . . . Few war books reflect so intimately the thinking and emotions of our fighting boys as does this splendidly edited collection of letters never intended for publication. . . . Bravo, Jimmy. . . . And your donation of half your royalties to the USO is a generous gesture. . . . Edgar Ansel Mowrer, the reliable and courageous foreign correspondent, has this to say about Pierre van Paassen's "The Forgotten Ally": "The Information Service of His Majesty's government would do well to answer Van Paassen's charges—not with a blanket denial or mere indignation, but calmly, chapter and verse. . . . Success here would help good Anglo-American relations, essential to the world." . . . If you want to know more about Sam Schulman, known as FDR's favorite photographer, be sure you get his autobiography, just published and entitled "Where's Sammy?" . . . As an ace news photographer, Sammy has been getting around, and isn't always easy to locate.

THIS AND THAT

An impressive galaxy of leaders, including Carl Van Doren, Pierre van Paassen, Kenneth Leslie, Mrs. Stephen S. Wise, Arthur Upham Pope and William Schieffelin, is sponsoring an action to outlaw anti-Semitism in this country. . . . The newly opened Children of All Nations Room at the Brooklyn Jewish Hospital boasts a fine library of children's phonograph records, the gift of Metropolitan Opera Soprano Eleanor Steber. . . . Sorry—we slipped up on the service branch in which Undersecretary of the Interior Abe Fortas is now enrolled. He's in the Navy, not the Army. . . . And we understand that he won't be called for active duty until after a jaunt to the Middle East, where he'll look over the Allied oil reserves.

3-YEAR FAMINE OVER, ENGLAND TO GET PALESTINE ORANGES

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON—The orange-starved population of Britain and the nearly-bankrupt citrus growers of Palestine had cause for rejoicing this week with the announcement here that for the first time since Italy entered the war in June, 1940, a shipment of 10,000 to 15,000 cases of Palestine oranges and lemons would soon be en route to England. Italy's surrender and Allied occupation of North Africa has once more opened the Mediterranean to British shipping.

The news that Palestine citrus fruits would soon be on sale at London greengrocers was made by the Ministry of Food, which disclosed that the first shipment would leave Haifa shortly, and would be followed by an estimated 500,000 cases in November and December. The imports of oranges and lemons are expected to total 2,000,000 cases by Spring, the announcement said.

Oranges have been a rarity in England for the past three years. The occasional shipments that did arrive from the United States or Spain were usually made available only to children. Those adults who managed to secure one paid fabulous prices. The Food Minister never rationed oranges since there just weren't any available.

LEGENDARY CHINESE JEWISH GENERAL ON GRIPSHOLM, LONDON PAPERS SAY

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON—General Morris Abraham Cohen, legendary military adviser to the rulers of the Chinese Republic, is reported in the London press this week to be among the repatriates from Japan aboard the Swedish exchange liner Gripsholm, which docked in Port Elizabeth, South Africa.

General Cohen, who has also been known as Cohen Moisha, General Ma, General Two-Gun Cohen, General Moishe-Ke and under various other soubriquets, has as many lives as a cat, if one takes at face value the reports concerning him which have appeared in the press during the past decade. His most recent demise was reported in a Canadian newspaper in March, 1942, when it was said that he had been captured and shot by the Japanese in Hong Kong. However, in May of last year, Manchester, England, newspapers disclosed that his brother had received a cable from the British attache in Chungking denying reports of his death. That was the last published report concerning him until this week's dispatches.

Cohen met Dr. Sun Yat Sen, founder of the Chinese Republic, in Vancouver, Canada, in the years before the Chinese Republic was established when Sun was in exile. A confidant of Canada's Chinese population, whose language he learned to speak, Cohen was placed in charge of a Chinese labor battalion during World War I. His fame spread among the Chinese and after the war he was invited to come to China as Dr. Sun's bodyguard. From that time on he remained in China, ultimately becoming a general in the Chinese Army.

HOLLYWOOD

By HELEN ZIGMOND

HOLLYWOOD—"As one minstrel saying good-bye to another," George Jessel delivered the eulogy at the funeral services of Ben Bernie. Jessel was Bernie's close friend for twenty-five years, and he spoke with deep feeling of the "maestro's" charity and friendship. Throughout his talk he used the present tense, because "there's no such thing as death." Jessel recited the kaddish. The mourners sobbed as he concluded with Bernie's own radio sign-off, "Good-night, maestro, pleasant dreams, toodle-oo, a bit of a tweet tweet and au revoir."

The body lay in state as many fans and old friends from the show world came to pay their last respects. Jack Benny, Sophie Tucker, Eddie Cantor, Lou Holtz, David Selznick were a few of the many mourners.

Bernie had had a colorful career of thirty years in show business, having started as a violinist-musicologist, the same as Jack Benny. It was Sophie Tucker who urged him to organize his first band in 1919. From then on he became a headliner both in vaudeville and radio. He rightfully deserves a place among the service casualties on the home front, for it was while attempting, against his doctor's orders, to carry out a heavy schedule of entertaining at defense plants that he was stricken with his fatal illness.

Movie Columnist Irving Hoffman retells a Talmudic tale that could well be a guide at the Peace Table. To Rabbi Ezekiel Landau came two disputing farmers. Between their farms lay a strip of land which each claimed and neither would yield an inch to the other. The rabbi said, "Let the earth itself render the decision." And to their astonishment he knelt down, bent his ear to the ground. He listened, then spoke in this wise: "The earth says, 'Tell them this is the decision of the earth. I belong to neither of them, but they belong to me. Both of them will one day repose in my bosom. Tell them that for the brief space they walk upon me, they shall walk in peace.'" Awed and humbled, the contestants departed in peace.

Stars and Stripes: Charles Chaplin, Jr., 18-year-old son of the comedian, became a private in Uncle Sam's Army last week, and it won't be long before his brother Sidney joins the ranks.

Ben Bernie's son is Private Jason Bernie.

Sgt. Sidney Kingsley (author of "Men in White") has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant.

Eddie Cantor is working out a "hospital circuit" plan for entertaining returned wounded service men.

Harry Revel received a bronze plaque from the USO for his untiring work in entertaining service men, particularly the hospitalized.

Major Cy Bartlett, first American to bomb Berlin, is ill in London.

Director Eddie Buzzell suffered a painfully injured foot during the Hollywood Cavalcade Bond Tour. So severe was the damage that he was required to wear an iron brace.

Praise has been heaped on Jack Benny, but a letter from a captain in a far outpost of the Persian Gulf Service tells the story graphically. In spite of almost unlivable conditions, of heat hovering at 150, of sand storms, in spite of flying hundreds of miles without a rest, Benny went right on performing. It was the first time in nearly a year that an important entertainer had visited that post. Nothing that has happened in our Command, the letter went

I'd Rather Be Right

(Released by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

By Samuel Grafton

I have been collecting all the explanations I can find for the Republicans' striking election gains.

The Democrats, nationally, say that the people voted as they did for a variety of local and special reasons. But local Democrats, town by town, explaining why they didn't get out the vote, are excusing themselves on the ground that there is a national Republican swing. Take your choice. Both explanations are vague, and really cancel each other out.

Mr. Willkie says the people are tired, very tired, of the national administration. That analysis runs into head-on collision with a Fortune poll of last June, which disclosed that 64.8 per cent of the electorate favored the re-election of Mr. Roosevelt for a fourth term, if the war were still on. If the people have become tired of F. D. R. since last June, they have become tired awfully fast. The analysis just doesn't add up.

They Don't Know Why

Mr. Harrison Spangler, national chairman of the G. O. P., says the people want to go back to the American way of life, meaning his way. But the Republican New York Herald Tribune thinks the people want to go forward, and that they now regard the Republicans as the progressive party. Again, check and cancel out.

In New York State, Governor Dewey says the victory was local, while Mr. Willkie says it was national. Check and cancel, once more. Of course Mr. Dewey, as Governor, is a local figure, while Mr. Willkie, as titular head of the party, is very national, and each man may be speaking the piece best suited to his own position. But, more and more, we find ourselves forced to the strange conclusion that while the Republicans certainly won handsomely, they do not really know why they won.

Was MacArthur Running?

What about the non-Republican Roosevelt opposition? The New York Daily News, which is isolationist, and non-Republican, thinks the people showed annoyance at the polls because the administration chose to invade North Africa instead of Japan.

The News seems so anxious to run MacArthur for President that it can hardly wait for the next election; it therefore injects him into the last one.

But the News' explanation simply can't be so. A Fortune poll last June showed that 70.4 per cent of the people endorsed the President's conduct of the war, while an American Institute of Public Opinion poll in July showed that 73 per cent endorsed his handling of foreign policy. The News is in the minority, and it is trying to saddle the majority with its own minority reasons. Its side won, but it, too, doesn't really know why.

Why, then, did the Republicans win? Is the reason statistical, so to speak; based on the fact that nearly 20 per cent of the electorate (believe it or not) is in uniform, and did not vote, and that this forced abstention of younger men, and workers, lately turned soldiers, hurt the Democrats somewhat more than it hurt the Republicans? Or is the reason for the Republican victory the fact that almost 10 per cent of the electorate has lately changed its address, hunting for war jobs? I don't know. It would take careful statistical studies to find out. I do not think such studies could fully account for a nationwide trend now five years old.

What's New, in Five Years?

Five years! That phrase rings a bell. What has been the chief domestic change of the last five years, apart from the war? (And the polls show that war helps Roosevelt politically, rather than hurts him.) Why, the chief domestic change of the last five years has been a rising income level, in all groups.

In the case of farmers, we can almost plot on a chart their decline of interest in the Democratic Party, as their financial status improved. Is better economic weather Republican weather? Is something like that at the bottom of the election, a growing conservatism, now that the income level is high? Were the people saying at the polls that nothing hurts them much, economically?

If so, there is something inexpressibly sad at the bottom of the election, a kind of prayer for stability. I would be troubled and thoughtful about that, if I were a political party. Neither party is responsible for the income level, and the income level seems to tell a somewhat clearer story than do the dazzled pundits of both.

on, has done so much for morale. He visited every ward of the field and station hospitals, and the joy he brought is something that will remain with those sick boys as long as they live.

Director Alfred Zeisler believes that when the truth is finally known, it will be revealed that the brutality of the Nazi regime, the sadistic ravings of Hitler, the fiendish terror of the Gestapo were all evolved in the fertile brain of the club-footed Goebbels. Of all the Nazi gangsters, Goebbels is the craftiest and most sinister. As a director and producer of UFA, Zeisler knew the "kultur" minister personally.

How Fines Levied on Tunisian Jews Told

Bombed out of their homes, robbed of their household possessions, the Jews of Tunisia, through these orders in French, Italian and Arabic, were forced to pay heavy fines and turn in their radios to the authorities. Kurt Peiser of Philadelphia, just returned from four months in North Africa, as a relief aide of the Joint Distribution Committee, brought the posters back with him.

The one on the left pertains to the confiscation of radios. The trilingual one on the right is signed by Nazi General von Arnim and declares that he, cause the Tunisian population has suffered severely from Allied bombings, the Jews, who are friends of the Allies, are being fined 20,000,000 francs to pay for the relief of air raid victims.

Despite wholesale looting and destruction of their homes by the Nazis, the Jewish communities of Tunisia aided by J.D.C., are rising out of their ruins to start life anew. With North Africa a preview of even greater tragedies to be found on the liberated continent, J.D.C. operations in Tunisia set a vital pattern for work in other lands torn from the grip of the Nazis

$1,000,000 IN FOOD PACKAGES GO TO JEWISH REFUGEES IN RUSSIA

Special NEW YORK — Thousands of packages of food and clothing totalling in cost near a million dollars are crossing the Soviet-Iranian border into Asiatic Russia each month in a unique relief project devised to relieve the widespread suffering caused by the second World War. The packages bear the names and addresses of individuals who were given refuge and sanctuary in Russia when they fled from Poland, Latvia and Lithuania before the advance of the Nazi armies and they represent the results of months of investigation and planning on the part of a major American Jewish relief agency, the Joint Distribution Committee.

Details of this package relief plan were made public today by Joseph C. Hyman, Executive Vice-Chairman of the Joint Distribution Committee. Mr. Hyman announced that $775,000 has already been allocated for this project for 1943, with the possibility that actual costs, including packing and shipping, may run to $1,000,000. Tea, soap, woolen and cotton underclothing, and medical supplies, purchased in India; shoes from South Africa; sugar, flour, vegetable fats, peas, dried fruits, from Iran; clothing and medical supplies from Palestine, go into these packages. The package shipments, Mr. Hyman said, are expected to reach a rate of 5,000 each month by the end of this year. The basic supplies, garnered after months of diligent search throughout the Near and Middle East by representatives of the Joint Distribution Committee, are assembled in Palestine and Iran and repacked there for shipment into Asiatic Russia.

Lists of names of thousands of individuals who are to receive packages have been furnished by relatives in the United States and by organizations here and in Palestine concerned with the welfare of affiliated groups. Among the hundreds of thousands of East European Jews known to be in Asiatic Russia are numerous rabbis and scholars from the famous Yeshivoh of Lithuania and Poland, many of whom are among the beneficiaries of the package plan.

Canada to Admit Stranded Refugees

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency MONTREAL — The Canadian Government this week authorized the admission into Canada of refugees now stranded in Spain and in Portugal, and is re-opening its immigration office in Lisbon for this purpose, it was announced here. The announcement disclosed that a Canadian immigration office has been sent to Lisbon and will soon be ready to issue the necessary visas to the refugees. No estimate was given as to the number of refugees who might be admitted under the new policy.

Giraud, de Gaulle Visit Jewish Cemetery

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency LONDON — The Jews in Algiers were pleasantly surprised this week when Gen. Henri Giraud and Gen. MUNICH (Nov. 5)—Never in the history of Germany has the peril of pogroms hung over the head of the Jewish population as it does today. Bavaria, particularly, swarms with uniformed and armed Hakenkreuzler who are openly fraternizing with the police and army. The press is exclusively anti-Semitic, all liberal papers in Bavaria having been shut down. The Hitlerists are using the notorious ritual murder libel to fan the anti-Jewish flames.

BERLIN (Nov. 6)—The German nationalists' agitation against the Jews came to a head here today when a furious mob of 30,000 invaded the Jewish quarter of Berlin and carried out the first pogrom in the German capital's history. Riots which began in the afternoon continued into the night. Much damage was done. The police, according to observers, remained inactive, and charges have been made that they mistreated many Jews whom they arrested ostensibly to protect them. No Jew is safe on the streets of Berlin today.

CIO BRANDS BIAS TREASON

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency PHILADELPHIA—The sixth annual convention of the Congress of Industrial Organizations now in session here this week denounced anti-Jewish propaganda in the United States and urged all labor unions affiliated with the C.I.O. to combat it. It also voted to support the bill now before Congress which recommends the barring of anti-Jewish and other racial propaganda from the mails. The resolution branded anti-Semitism as "treason to America."

Jews now that the anti-Semitic fascist leader, Adolph Hitler, rules Bavaria. It is recalled that one of the Fascist leader's aims is the expulsion of all Jews from Bavaria. Lack of communication with Munich tends only to increase the dark forebodings concerning the Jews. Meanwhile the Jewish quarter of this city resembles an armed camp, three days after the pogroms. Police are stationed at all street corners, armed with machine guns, grenades and rifles.

2-HOUR STRIKE OBSERVED

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency JERUSALEM — A two-hour strike during which work in all Jewish enterprises throughout the country stopped, was called here this week to protest the "incitements and false accusations" against the Jews of Palestine voiced by British military officials during the "arms trial" which took place recently in Jerusalem.

ment and there is hope that order will be restored in the Reich. Reparations for the victims of the anti-Jewish attacks are being considered and persons responsible for them will be arrested, it is reported.

MUNICH (Nov. 12.)—The "nationalist revolution" in Bavaria which was ended so abruptly, was directed against the "Jewish government in Berlin" according to a speech by one of Adolph Hitler's lieutenants made outside a brewery where the putsch was planned. It is understood that the "revolutionary government" had planned several anti-Jewish decrees and if the revolt had not miscarried, unprecedented acts of repression would have been carried out against the Jewish citizens of Germany. The Volkischer Beobachter, organ of Hitler, has been suppressed by the authorities.

I WAS visited by a young gentleman who came to take up with me a matter that is quite poignant in American life today. He said he was speaking as an American yet as a Jew as well. He considered his being an American and his being a Jew as identities not separate but in closely knit relationship to one another.

What he was about to say was for all Americans; his being a Jew served to underline it, he said.

Yes, so many Americans were troubled these days by the impending draft of fathers and he thought it timely that one young American father be allowed to speak publicly on the matter. It might help. Would I consent to let him use this column for that purpose?

I said go ahead.

He and his wife had come to a happy reconciliation to the idea of his going into the Army.

Of course, whether they were reconciled to it or not had no bearing on the fact that he had been put in 1-A, for shortly he would be called for his screening test; he would have to go anyway. Still, it is easier to go if a man understands what it's all about and is conscious of a high ideal and purpose calling him. . . . "Isn't that right?" he asked.

He described his family life. It centers around the baby. The child is three itself. Each day the infant's mind presents something new, new—a new word learned, a new idea.

Yesterday the child asked, where was I before I was born? Night before last he asked about the stars and how were they put there, how high up and who did it?

The gentleman said each evening when he comes home from his work there is a new revelation in the child. For that reason his home has become a place in which he finds something new and more beautiful every day. Sunday is like a great feast day: He has the child every hour and it's like watching a pageant of creation all day.

"Perhaps I'm too ecstatic," he said. "Am I boring you? You must forgive the ecstasies of a young father."

So when the notice came—1A—he felt devastated. In the divine hour of his worship he was being called to leave his altar. Yes, he said, that's what it was like. Whenever he kneels on the floor at play with the baby he is conscious of kneeling at an altar.

He had been called to go far on a mysterious destiny. He searched his heart and had to confess that the idea of leaving his wife was the lesser of his pain. He told her so and she understood. Not that he loved her less. Their baby had become central to both their lives.

In the child's bedtime prayer that night his mother asked him to add something. . . . "Say, 'God, please make my father brave.'"

"What's brave?" the child asked.

"It means strong," she replied.

Afterward she said that's what both of them needed—to be brave. . . . "And, dear, we can't be brave unless we think it all out."

That's how they came to the happy adjustment. . . . "We thought it all out" . . . She started by saying that both of them believed in the things the war was being fought for. They had believed in these things even long before America got into it.

Far back in the time when Mussolini attacked Ethiopia they had first felt there was a grave menace arising in the world out of Fascism. They had suffered acutely on account of the news about Jews in Germany, but at that time that seemed a hideous thing exclusive to Germany, and the world couldn't do anything about that. Then Spain. She remembered that she had contributed to the flower fund of their temple in memory of a boy she knew who had volunteered his life for the Spanish Republicans.

"We thought it the noblest sacrifice—this boy giving himself for what he believed in," she said.

And now the duty this boy had taken up by choice had come to them per-force, by the action of events. . . . "We have no choice but we can at least take it up with brave hearts, like people who know that the greatest thing in the world is to sacrifice for things you believe in."

She said, certainly they still believed in moral law and in the doing of justice even now when they had been called to fight for these things. They couldn't stand back and, as for herself, she was going to try not to cry when he left for the Army.

If it was going to be a happier world afterward, it will be a world their child will inherit. He will be one of the millions who will have to go if there is another war in 20 years. . . . "That mustn't happen," she said. "That's what we're fighting for—that it shouldn't happen again. That's what you're being called for."

There was something else that she brought up, my visitor said. All she had said before might be for the understanding of any American. Now she mentioned Jews and what America had meant to his and her people. Their parents were immigrants and America had done well by them. Of course, they had done well by America, too. They had made good lives and brought their children up right. She remembered the great moment their graduation from the university was for their parents.

She said all this with no air of patriotic lecturing. She ended up by saying simply well, that's the way for us to look at it, I think. If we look at it that way it will be easier for us to go through the months ahead.

Her husband had accepted her counsel and it had become his own feeling. He wasn't putting on any show of superior valor. . . . "I'm just giving you what one family thinks about it, and I'm trying to tell others how to feel. It may help, though."

Yes, I said, I'll pass it on.

SARA'S COLUMN

By SARA MESSING STERN

AT THE ANNUAL EXHIBIT of the Indiana Artists Club recently held at L. S. Ayres, I noticed an interested group of women studying a painting entitled, "Self-Portrait." They were praising the originality of its conception, the sense of humor of the artist. Intrigued by their remarks, I looked at the painting. No human being was visible. A person was suggested, however, by a pair of oxford-shod feet, and hose-clad ankles and shanks, resting comfortably on the top of a window seat. The latter was built over a radiator. The view through the window was of a winter scene. A red apple on the window-seat within reaching distance, a big piece bitten out! A copy of the Indianapolis Star, dated January 8, 1943, was spread open on invisible knees! The "Self Portrait" of a clever artist, Beatrice Felsenthal Segar, wife of Dr. Louis Segar.
